Allthenticate

Secure your company with ease

Allthenticate was founded in 2008 when founder Chad Spensky joined the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill as a PhD candidate and became obsessed with the idea of using smartphones to replace passwords.

The Allthenticate team has extensive experience both attacking and defending critical systems. These various experiences have allowed them to do better at securing our infrastructure, especially with respect to authentication. Thus, they are here to usher in a new ubiquitous smartphone-based authentication paradigm: Allthentication.

Allthenticate has recently secured its first funding round, with three dedicated founders and three employees, making their dream to change the world a reality.

“The SBDC has truly been an awesome resource for us. I have been meeting with our lead consultant on a weekly basis, which has been very useful to discuss our challenges and be pointed to the right direction. Because the SBDC consultants have disparate areas of expertise, I was able to get help on different topics such as fundraising, bookkeeping, building financial projections and marketing.”
